

Current JET rankings of journals in which Australian & New Zealand nursing and midwifery researchers publish their work

December 22nd, 2008

A two round Delphi process and a focus group were utilised to identify all criteria contained in the tool. Thus the tool represented the opinions and judgements of those in both the expert panel, and the CDNMM members involved in the focus group discussion. It did however; incorporate both objectives (e.g. ISI impact factors) and subjective (e.g. editorial standards) methods of judging the quality of journals. This supports the conclusions reached from a systematic literature review, undertaken prior to the initiation of research.

Calculating journal scores and quality bands

The total raw score for each journal was calculated (maximum possible score was 10). Scores were then converted to percentages, and 'quartile' cut-off scores were utilised to generate 4 quality bands for ranking of journals.

Scoring for allocation to quality bands is outlined in Table 1. Scores between 0 and 25 or journals without a completed JET were assigned to the lowest quality band, which was quality band 4 (with "N/A" as the score). Scores ranging from 26 to 50 were assigned to quality band 3; scores from 51 to 75 were assigned to quality band 2 and scores from 76 to 100 were classified to the top quality band- band 1. The current results of the journal ranking exercise are displayed in Table 2. Please note that results presented in Table 2 are current as of December 22nd, 2008, and that this table diverges from that currently available online (circa July 2008). All additions to the list since July 2008 are highlighted in bold red font.

Table 1: Scoring for quality bands

Quality Band	Score
--------------	-------

1	76-100
2	51-75
3	26-50
4	0-25

Since July 2008 impact factors have been updated, to reflect changes in impact factors since original scoring. For this reason, rankings of some journals have been altered since July 2008.

In cases where more than one JET has been submitted for a journal (e.g., one JET from 2007, and another from late 2008), the most recent JET has been used for scoring purposes.

Journals yet to receive a JET ranking are included in Band 4 (with N/A as the score).
